The library of the Church house has just acquired a very interesting addition, in the shape of a well preserved copy of the celebrated Vinegar Bible, which got its name from an error in the running title of Saint Luke, where, in the twentieth chapter, it reads the "parable of the vinegar," instead of the "parable of the vinegar." The people tried to lift up the sheets that covered the bodies, only to be met by the sight of shapeless cemnants of flesh, or severed arms and legs, and General Kernhe, the communder of the Eighth Army Corps, implored the excited crowd to be calm, and his presence had a good effect. The celebration was held under the auspices of the Father Mathew Total Abstinance Society, of this city, a growing and influential organization. "If there are any members of the church," he said, "engaged in the business—and unhappily there are—they ought to get out of it at once and seek a more creditable calling."

It is quite on the cards that his Importal Majesty, thee white Czar, as the head of the Orthodox Church, may issue an imperial ukase giving the necessary dispensation, but if he does, the action will be cartain, to offend the Holy Synod very grievously. Such is the view of the matter taken by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Mr. Mason, who repeated to day what he told THE TIMES correspondent some time ago. In other words, the clause respecting to bacco will remain as it is unless Congress applies a remedy for the omission in enrolment. There are almost innumerable precedents against General Wheeler's view of invalidation. And attention, while the subject was under discussion to-day, was called by an officer of the Government to what was done by the Hayes administration when in the enrolment of the Sundry Civil bill in 1878, a whole clause, carrying with it a million and haif dollars to be asked for the improvement of the Hot Springs reservation in Arkansas, was omitted.
